

PAT GARRETT BIO

Country entertainer, Pat Garrett has one of the best voices in country music today. With seven albums to his credit, this vocal powerhouse has shared the stage with George Jones, Willie Nelson and Loretta Lynn. While his rich baritone voice is perfectly showcased on one of his romantic original ballads, like wedding favorite “Hold Onto You”, he is not one to shy away from a stimulating debate.

A prime example is his newest release, I’m Gonna Stand. Inspired by the current NFL controversy, the song is, more importantly, a tribute to our flag and national anthem. Judging from audience reaction, the song promises to “stand” the test of time, long after the headlines change.

The prolific singer/songwriter has also made a significant impact in more than one genre. A prime example is a rock album recorded under the name Pat Farrell and the Believers. The album included the song “Bad Woman”, which was covered by acclaimed British rockers, the Arctic Monkeys years later. The Harley riding cowboy is also a hit on the biker scene. “Wild Hog” is a full-out, rollicking stomp that became a Top 20 download, and has almost 200,000 hits on YouTube.

Garrett’s also thrown his cowboy hat into the political ring with his infectious, upbeat single “Moose Shootin’ Mama,”. A tribute to former candidate for Vice President, Sarah Palin, this was one of the most talked about songs of the 2008 political season, leading to coverage on major news outlets, Fox and ABC, and a stint as the entertainer on the GOP trail.

He has also received national attention for his irreverent commentary on the political scene, with the “Monica Lewinsky Polka, “Stick Your Oil’, “Bailout, and his “Saddam Stomp,” which hit the Billboard Top 100 and was covered by ABC News, Rolling Stone and Country Weekly.

“Drinking This Yuengling Beer” is a tongue-in-cheek tribute to the famous brewery near his hometown in Pennsylvania.

Pat Garrett performs around the USA. His music can be heard on AMI jukeboxes around the country, and is available on iTunes, at www.patgarrett.com, and most online outlets.
